Overview

Kobi PC Table facilitates collaboration and content sharing through either individual or group work in a design that can be scaled depending on the size of the room.

The ergonomic screen mount at the end of the table can enable users to cast their screens to the screen or the instructor to use it as a slave display. Cabling has been cleverly thought through with a channel and access hatches, making it easy for integration and any ongoing maintenance.

Built for either all-in-one or compact tower PC's the Kobi can be customised to suit architectural requirements, with many options for metalwork and worktop finishes.
